

Visual Planet: Finalist of the Nabarro Nathanson Technology Industry Awards

Law firm, Nabarro Nathanson, in association with Infoconomy and Intellect, has staged the technology industry awards event of the year. The awards are genuinely independent and winning companies will, therefore, represent the absolute elite within their professional field. Visual Planet has come finalist in two of the categories.

Most Innovative Use of Technology in a Project

This award recognises services companies that have used an established or emerging technology in an innovative way.

Most Innovative Product

This award recognises software or hardware developers that have delivered a truly new and innovative solution to market during the course of the past year.
